Military court chides Garcia for delaying trial

By Dana Z. Pineda

A MILITARY tribunal yesterday chastised retired Maj. Gen. Carlos Garcia for delaying his trial.

The head of the court martial, Lt. Gen. Emmanuel Tenekeo, also said that Garcia had not made "substantial progress" in his defense.

Garcia, former Armed Forces chief of staff, was charged with crimes committed as officer and a gentleman, for his undeclared wealth and his being a permanent resident of the US.

The military court noted the delay after it granted a motion by Garcia's lawyers to postpone yesterday's hearing.

Garcia showed up late his civilian lawyers, former judge Jose Bautista and Constantino de Jesus, were at a hearing on Garcia's application to postpone the Sandiganbayan.

"We view with concern the scoldingly much delay in the proceedings," Tenekeo, the court president, said. "We've been here for so long but we're not substantially progressing." He rebuked defense lawyers to observe the hearing dates set at schedule.

Garcia had presented all witnesses, but the five-judicial court was apparently still waiting for Garcia to get in the heat of the case.

"We advise the defense to be more assertive in its presentation of the case so that hearing will finish soon today with the proceedings," Tenekeo said.

GArcia is on his way to trial

Military defense counsel Lt. Col. Antonio Duranillo later declined to speculate that they had caused the delay.

He said Bautista and de Jesus asked for postponement the previous day but Tenekeo did not grant it.

When he told the court that the "civilian case is more serious," the court firm member Col. Gerardo Aguilar rebuked him. "You should know better," she told him.

Col. Al Perdomo, chief military prosecutor, said Garcia's lawyers were complaining on "technicalities."

"So far as the prosecution is concerned, they're not countervailing what was said in the charge sheet. That's what the court is waiting for," he said in an interview.

But he said they understood that Garcia's lawyers had to go to the Sandiganbayan.

The trial began last Nov. 17.

The prosecution presented details of stable land acquisition and luxury vehicles that Garcia's father and his wife's, his statements of assets and liabilities and records of his US immigrant status.

Garcia's lawyers have called the staff of former AFP chief of staff Gen. Narciso Alayon and military investigators to testify on the motion ordering a court martial for Garcia.

His lawyers said Alayon rushed the filing of charges before he retired on June 29 last year.

Garcia's lawyers said they wanted to put Alayon on the witness stand, which prosecutors said they would oppose.

On Wednesday, the AFP turned over Garcia to the Sandiganbayan after an arrest warrant was issued.

Garcia had no substitute about his new detention quarters at the PNP headquarters in Camp Crame, according to his lawyers Duranillo.

"In fact, maybe it's quite better than he's there," he added.

Lawyers want ex-general moved to V. Luna

By Nelson G. Flores

THE LAWYERS of retired armed forces commander Maj. Gen. Carlos Garcia citing health reasons, yesterday asked the Sandiganbayan to have him transferred from Camp Crame Center to the V. Luna Medical Center.

To bolster their claim, Garcia's lawyers - retired Makati Regional Trial Court Judge Apo Bautista and Constantino de Jesus - presented Dr. Noel Gutierrez, a pulmonologist, before the members of the anti-graft court's Social Division presided over by Justice Eulberto Masinela where the 300 million-peso case of Garcia is being heard.

Gutierrez testified that Garcia is suffering from an illness known as apnea, a form of sleeping disorder, which affects the airflow in the nose and mouth. He also said that treatment he apnea include weight reduction, exercise, smoking avoidance and by taking medications that control hypertension.

"Apnea complicated by hypertension is a life-threatening disease, if not corrected could also be life threatening," Gutierrez said.

He noted that a spacious confinement like a hospital or, if possible, a hotel is desirable for Garcia.

Bautista said apnea can "trigger and deepen the blood of oxygen and increase the amount of carbon dioxide."

Special Prosecutor Dennis Villegas said apnea is a sleep disorder common to almost everybody including children. He said it could be treated without necessitating confinement in a hospital.

"It could even be treated by the patient itself," Villegas said.

On Wednesday, Garcia was rushed to the PNP Hospital after complaining of difficulty in breathing but was soon back in his cell after medical examinations showed no signs of life-threatening illness.

The Sandiganbayan last Wednesday ordered Garcia's transfer of custody from the Intelligence Service of the Armed Forces of the Philippines to the PNP headquarters in Camp Crame after his lawyers failed to convince the court of the necessity of his continued stay at the IRRAP headquarters.

of mourning" on June 11 to bring the "sorry state" of the country to international attention.

But Thiguer, one of three Catholic bishops serving as EMB senior advisers, stressed that he was not calling for the President's ouster.

He said the EMB was in fact helping her stay by urging her to do something "to contribute" the worsening political and economic situation.

Oil prices

"Tough decisions to save the economy and the rise of oil prices beyond our call have taken their toll on the President's ratings," Press Secretary Igracia Bunye said in a statement.

But he said the Palace was confident that the ratings had "bottomed out" and that "giving confidence in the country will reverse the trend as we gain more investments, jobs and coverage to support our basic services."

Interviewed over defunct radio, Bunye said high oil prices in the world market had caused local oil prices to go up as well.

He said this was something beyond the control of the government, which could only mitigate the impact of the high prices.

Still, he pointed out, the price of oil in the world market was now dropping. He said he expected this trend to continue.

Revenue measures

Bunye said Ma Arroyo's stance to get Congress to pass vital revenue measures such as the Expanded Value-Added Tax law also helped bring down her rating.

He said the debate that accompanied the deliberations over these tax measures had been "unproductive, unenlightened and unpopular."

"But the President had to do this in order to fix the economy," he said, adding:

"The economic situation may be impossible, but there are remedies. And if the President did not push for them, then the country's economic condition could worsen for the worse in three to five years."

In Benguet, Ma Arroyo said the revenue-generating measures would best help the government finance infrastructure development, among others.

She said this was why she was hoping that one day the country would no longer rely on foreign funds.

But House Minority Leader Francis Recto said the administration had only itself to blame for Ma Arroyo's low rating because it did not listen to public opposition to its unpopular policies, like the expanded VAT.

"When we opposed this, they said

Black ribbons for GMA

THE KILUSAG Makabansag Movement (KMB) yesterday urged the people to wear black ribbons and black shirts daily beginning today to signal their indignation toward President Macapagal-Arroyo's government.

Church bells will toll during the hour of the Divine Mercy at 3 p.m. daily as part of the mourning, said KMB chair Jimmy Regalado.

The black campaign will culminate in a mass action at 3 p.m. on June 11, the eve of Independence Day.

The June 11 program has drawn support from Bishops Rolando Tirona of the province of Ilocos and Vicente Navarra of Marikina, Regalado said.

He said the protest action would be "open to everybody," including militant groups and members of the political opposition who share the KMB's observations on the economy.

"But there would be no escalation, no agitation," he said. "The program will be purely educational."

we were just politicking and were out to destabilize the government ... But it is the people who came to us and complained that the administration's government is not in accordance with their will," he said in Manila.

Makabansag accused Bishop Bagat and his fellow EMB advisers, Bishops Jesus Esteban Latayan and Antonio Tebes, of destabilizing the administration when they publicly called for drastic economic reforms on Labor Day.

The three bishops—considered moderates among the Catholic clergy—were accused along with certain personalities in the opposition.

Bagat said that shortly afterwards, he had a chance to air his sentiments to the President in a brief private conversation arranged by a friend.

"I advised her that we're not alone here either, that our concerns, really, were to correct the situation," he said.

He recalled that his Arroyo associate "approving" over the plan, but he said he had noticed no change in her perspective.

"Here reason to mourn"

For the KMB, "there is enough there reason to mourn than to celebrate" on Independence Day.

"We're not even a nation-state anymore," Bishop Latayan lamented. "We don't have our own parliament, and that includes the political justice" tax. We are included in the global system ... [We] are caught in it, and that's the reason there is some mourning, because we have lost our so-called independence or autonomy as a nation."

Latayan and his peers want a stop to the foreign debt service that has drained the government's income up with new tax measures such as the expanded VAT.

"The existence of national debt today must be understood," the KMB said in a paper. "Why must we pay these debts when Argentina now is a successful case of the moral debt-free of repudiating international debt?"

Various opinions were aired regarding the steep drop in the President's performance rating.

"The decline now seems irreversible because there is no meaningful change to her administration's policies," said Renato Reyes Jr., secretary general of the militant Bagong Advancing Makabansag.

Reyes said Reyes expected a further decline in Ma Arroyo's rating with the expanding hike in power rates, the expanded VAT, and the yet unresolved problems of graft and corruption.

"[Ma Arroyo] may be heading the end, and she knows it," he said.

Ayalaque Rep. Rafael Mariano said his Arroyo's dismal rating was a "crystal-clear sign" of her "extreme political isolation" from the people and showed her "vulnerability" to being "removed from power."

The government, too

Ayalaque Rep. Ramon Puno said it was the whole government that should worry about the plunge in Ma Arroyo's rating.

Puno, leader of the pro-administration party Lakas ng Malayang Pagan (Lampang), said at a press conference in Quezon City that the task of winning the administration's political stability should not solely rest on the President's shoulders.

But Albay Rep. Jose Sakundala said the "young" leaders and worsening unemployment problem also loomed largely.

"We recognize ... Unemployment is a major problem because the President promised 8-10 million jobs," Sakundala said at the weekly Breakfast of News forum.

He noted that it was already halfway through the year but the government had produced only 80,000 jobs, a far cry from the 1.8 million generated last year. With reports from Philip C. Solares, Michael Lim Chin and Norman Bonifacio

SO THE TRUTH MAY BE KNOWN on the OWWA-Medicare issue

In light of recent accusations of certain OFW groups that the P530 million in OWWA-Medicare funds transferred to PhilHealth were misused, we would like to assure OFWs and their families, as well as the reading public, that not a single cent of the said funds was mismanaged.

Contrary to what these OFW groups claim, the funds were transferred to us starting March 2005. The first tranche worth P300M was transferred on March 16 and the second and final tranche worth P230M was transferred on April 15. The total amount transferred was actuarially determined and both the OWWA and PhilHealth agreed that this was the amount needed to pay for the claims of OFWs for one year. As such, there is absolutely no truth to the rumor that the said amount was moved to us prior to last year's elections.

In addition, the Medicare fund from OWWA is intact, and securely placed in government securities such as special savings deposits (SSDs) and Treasury Bills in government depository banks. These are used to pay for the medical care claims of OFWs and their families as well as for the salaries of about 92 OWWA personnel who joined PhilHealth upon the turnover of the program function. To date, we have paid close to P6 million for the medical care claims of OFWs and their families.

As guardians of the health insurance funds, we are and we will continue to exercise prudence in its management, to make sure that our member-OFWs and their families are able to avail themselves of the hospitalization benefits whenever and wherever they need these. After all, this is our commitment to the public we serve.

Crisis seen threatening EU's role on world stage

By Leon Brumman

BRUSSELS—Growing uncertainty over the EU's future, as its leaders grapple for a way forward after twin blows to its constitution, risks severely damaging the bloc's credibility on the world stage, analysts say.

"Outside Europe, states that inside Europe, doubt is settling in, uncertainty reigns," noted Lithuanian foreign minister and currently EU president Jonas Valionis after Dutch voters last night rejected the constitution at Wednesday.

"It's a dangerous situation that is by the way weakening and risks further weakening the influence of the European Union's global policies," he said.

The "no" vote in France and the Netherlands against the text, aimed at making the expanding Union more administratively efficient, came at a time when the EU's foreign policy initiatives have never been higher.

The bloc has played a key role in the Iran nuclear standoff, is pushing forward peace and the Palestinian, quickly backs the Afghan authorities, and is helping build the Balkans together after the wars in the 1990s.

It is also moving into new territory in helping resolve the conflict in Sudan's Darfur region and will host a major international conference on Iraq in a few weeks.

And as leaders in the 25-member Union met about desperately for another way forward, some that the charter appears a dead letter, the doubt even seeped in at the high-profile EU summit with the United States.

UN Secretary of State Kofi Annan, speaking on Thursday after the summit with a "rush" of senior EU officials, sought to play down the impact of the votes but stressed that the future of their future lies in a nutshell.

"We understand that this has been a difficult period and that there will be some period of reflection going forward," Ann said. "But we continue to hope for an onward-looking Europe, not an inward-looking one."

ENVIRONMENT DAY
A portrait of a girl plays in one of the many public parks spread throughout the desert kingdom during World Environment Day in Riyadh June 3. World Environment Day is sponsored by the United Nations Environment Programme and is celebrated internationally.

The weakened UN support for a strong Europe and said the summit leaders offer had many more before them. "We are confident that this partnership will continue to grow and to be put to use in the service of great goals."

Lithuanian Foreign Minister Jean Asselborn conceded that, following the French and Dutch voters, "Europe is a little bit hesitating" after decades of integration. "Europe is not denied, just rejected by these two nations."

"But it seems to be understandable," he added.

EU commissioners agreed that the EU summit will inevitably impact on its international relations. "It's going to be difficult for it (the EU) to serve as a useful partner for the United States going forward," said David Millett of the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington. APP

EU may scrap all referendums

LUXEMBOURG—EU leaders may decide to scrap all other planned referendums on the bloc's new constitution during their summit later this month in the wake of its rejection by voters in France and the Netherlands, Portuguese Foreign Minister Diego Freixo de Amaral has said.

"What may happen at the next European Council is that the leaders of the 25 member states could conclude that it would be a useless and even painful exercise if it appeared that successive referendums would produce more 'no' results," he told state television RTP late Thursday.

The referendums could either be temporarily suspended to give time for a period of reflection or "the whole process could be terminated," he added.

"We can't be blind to reality and we can't pretend that nothing happened in France and the Netherlands, that nothing could happen with the British government. We can't act like an ostrich," said Freixo. APP

Israeli commandos admit following order to do 'an eye for an eye' killings

JERUSALEM—Israeli commandos killed eight Palestinian prisoners in 'eye for an eye' killings three years ago that were ordered to avenge murders that it was accused, in an army document in the West Bank, of committing on Friday.

The report in the Israeli Daily newspaper by senior Israeli security sources, was the latest public challenge to the Israeli army's public statement that it has never acted by a code book of orders to killing a Palestinian (AP).

After prison from the Israeli Prison Authority, Israeli Daily said an order to a document within the West Bank says of killings on Feb. 15, 2002, Israeli Prison Minister David Ben-Gurion approved killing of the male and -female of the prisoners.

"The finding was that this order to kill was the only one," an Israeli source said in the document after three years ago said Israeli.

Eighteen Palestinian were killed in various (including) attacks, including eight prisoners, and were standing their ground in the area, Israeli Daily said.

"We are going to implement a counter-attack, as a punishment for the attack by the prisoners," the document said. The document said the document was the only one.

The political landscape in the Philippines is a complex one, shaped by a long history of authoritarianism and a recent history of democratic governance. The current administration, led by President Benigno Aquino III, has sought to reform the judiciary, the military, and the political system. However, the ground realities are often far from ideal. Corruption remains a major problem, and the political system is still largely dominated by a few powerful families. ## Condemned to repetition

Book and Reviews

The book 'Condemned to Repetition' is a powerful exploration of the human condition. It examines the ways in which we are often trapped in cycles of behavior and thought, and how these cycles can limit our potential. The author offers a compelling argument for the need to break free from these cycles and to embrace change. The book is a thought-provoking read that challenges our assumptions about the human mind and the world around us. It is a powerful exploration of the human condition. Figure 1 consists of four scanning electron micrographs (SEM) arranged in a 2x2 grid, showing the surface morphology of different polyimide (PI) films. The top-left panel is labeled 'PI film' and shows a relatively smooth surface. The top-right panel is labeled 'PI film' and shows a surface with small, irregular protrusions. The bottom-left panel is labeled 'PI film' and shows a surface with larger, more pronounced protrusions. The bottom-right panel is labeled 'PI film' and shows a surface with a dense, granular texture.

Fan gets to bid Nicklaus painful goodbye

The image is a very low-resolution, blurry screenshot of a document. The text is mostly illegible due to the blurring. In the top left corner, there is a header that appears to say "Page 1 of 1". The main body of the document contains several paragraphs of text, but the words are too blurry to read. There are some faint, larger words that might be "Education", "Experience", and "Skills", suggesting it could be a resume. The overall appearance is that of a poor-quality scan or a screenshot taken from a small screen.

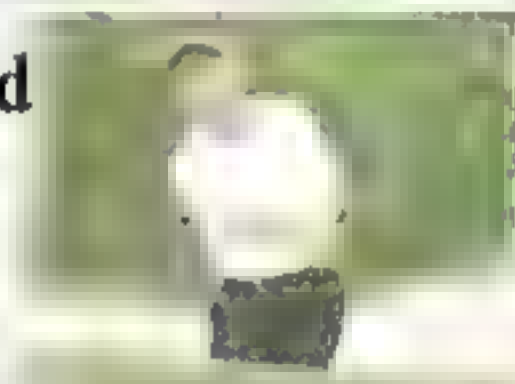

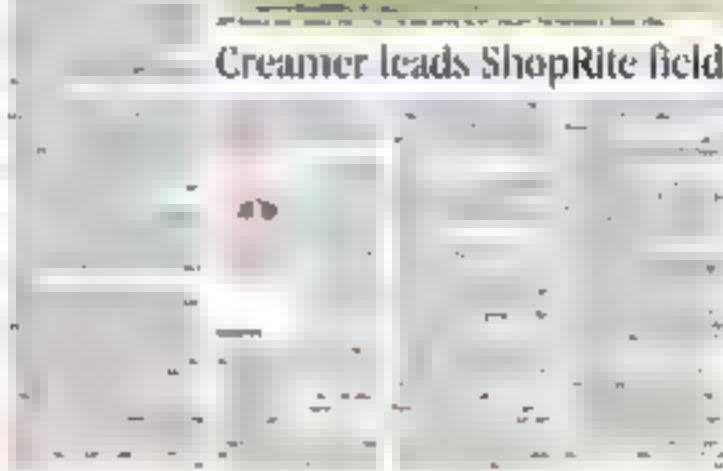

Figure 1 is a 3D bar chart illustrating the distribution of the number of children per family (x-axis, 0 to 6) across different levels of education (y-axis, 1 to 6) and income (z-axis, 1 to 6). The chart shows that higher education and income levels are associated with a higher number of children. For example, at the highest education level (6) and income level (6), the number of children is 6. Conversely, at the lowest education level (1) and income level (1), the number of children is 0.

Fiscal reforms to boost infrastructure spending

By Michael S. Davis

NEW YORK — Morgan Stanley & Co. Inc. has upgraded its rating for the Philippines from "hold" to "buy" and raised its price target for the country's stock market to $100 from $80, citing the government's fiscal reforms and the country's strong economic growth.

MADONNA'S DISCOGRAPHY IS A Mosaic of styles, from her early, disco-influenced pop to her more recent, more experimental work. But one thing is true: Madonna is a master of the visual. Her music videos are works of art in their own right, and her live shows are equally spectacular. In this special issue, we look at the evolution of her style and the impact of her music on the world of pop.

Madonna's early work was heavily influenced by disco and funk. Her first single, "Dress You Up," was a cover of a song by the same name. It was a success, and it led to her signing with Sire Records. Her second single, "Holiday," was also a success, and it led to her signing with Warner Bros. Her third single, "Lucky Star," was also a success, and it led to her signing with Warner Bros.

Two for the road

BY MICHAEL O'NEILL

When it comes to getting out on the road, it's not just the car that counts, but also the people in it. And when it comes to the car, it's not just the car that counts, but also the people in it. And when it comes to the car, it's not just the car that counts, but also the people in it.

Though the car is a key element in the road, it's not the only one. The car is a key element in the road, it's not the only one. The car is a key element in the road, it's not the only one.
